The Pact for the Future to be adopted at the once-in-a-generation Summit of the Future includes actions aiming to improve youth engagement at national and international levels in order to accelerate progress towards the SDGs. Yet, deliberations continue concerning what truly works to meaningfully engage youth in all manner of sociopolitical, governance, and participatory processes.

On the sidelines of the Summit, NORRAG, Ban Ki-moon Foundation, Center for Sustainable Development, Columbia University, the Global Partnership for Education (GPE), Learning Planet Alliance, and Mission 4.7 are joining hands to form a partnership to surface and amplify young leaders' expertise on how best to engage youth for a better today and tomorrow. We will launch our Policy Insights #05 Meaningful Youth Engagement: Time to Deliver.
